ODA NOBUNAGA, Japanese Warlord

Oda Nobunaga rose from unremarkable beginning to become master of central Japan and the most powerful daimyo (warlord) of his time. When he succeeded to his father's estate of ODA in 1551, the 17y old Nobunaga controlled about $\frac{1}{2}$ of his native province. Nine yrs later, with only 2000 troops he routed a 20,000 man army under IMA GAWA YOSHIMOTO at the Battle of OKEITAZAMA, killing Yoshimoto in the fray. Within a decade he clearly emerged as the major contender for countrywide hegemony. At the time of his death just the hands of a recalcitrant vassal, he dominated nearly $\frac{1}{3}$ of the entire country including the imperial capital of KYOTO He created the last ASHIKAGO SHOGUN
